Creating Wealth Beyond Money: The common mistakes of estate planning are 1) waiting too long and then forced to make quick decisions after a life-changing medical issue or tragic loss; 2) underestimating the hidden financial and relational costs of a lack of correct documentation; 3) not communicating an established plan with a spouse, children, caregivers or executors. If you're alive, it's not too late to create an estate plan. Provided by Catholic United Financial Credit Union. Not intended as tax or legal advice.
